

https://www.theoaklandpress.com/lifestyles/suburban/briefing-farmington-hills-art-exhibit-spotlight-on-youth-concert-troy/article_e69d48fa-45f7-11ea-aa9f-5bd866af60f5.html

BRIEFING: Farmington Hills art exhibit; Spotlight on Youth Concert; Troy Library's Universal Access Collection

Feb 2, 2020

Ann Arbor-based painter Hava Gurevich's artwork is on display at Farmington Hills City Hall.

Photo from hava.biz

FARMINGTON HILLS

Contemporary painter opens exhibit at City Hall

Contemporary painter Hava Gurevich's Organic Fiction Exhibit provides a bright spot at Farmington Hills City Hall during the winter months.

Located in the Rotating Exhibits Gallery at 31555 W. Eleven Mile Road, the exhibit is open to the public now through March 27 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Gurevich's career in the arts stretches over 25 years as an educator, gallery director, photo curator and portfolio reviewer. Nature serves as inspiration for her artwork, which features botanical, aquatic and microscopic motifs.

"Blending images from the real world and imagination, my art celebrates nature in all its beauty, chaos, and complexity," said the Ann Arbor-based artist.

Those interested in purchasing any of the artwork at City Hall can call 248-473-1857. For more information about Gurevich, visit hava.biz.